

Most MLM participants said their company did not accurately represent their chances at financial success.

52% of distributors surveyed said that their company’s portrayal of success was either “not too accurate” or “not at all accurate”

